Listening 1

Santino: So how was dinner? Did you like everything?

Masha: Yes! The steak was nice, Santino. And I loved the black beans.

Santino: Would you like some more?

Masha: No, thanks.

Santino: What would you like for dessert? I have some chocolate cake and some ice cream. Or pineapple?

Masha: No, thanks. Do you have any coffee?

Santino: Of course. With milk?

Masha: Yes please. So tell me about your family. How are they?

Santino: My family's good. My sister Irene and her husband bought an apartment one block from here.

Masha: That's good news. Do you see her very often?

Santino: Well, right now I'm so busy at work that I don't have much time. I'm going on a business trip next week.

Masha: So then you don't see Irene very often?

Santino: No, not often. Well ... I saw her on Tuesday because we went for a run together. She likes to run and so we went for a run in the forest. On Tuesdays she finishes work early and so we spend some time together. And your family, Masha. How are they?

Masha: Oh, that's a long story! First, let's have our coffee.

Man 1: Look at all these cool robots.

Woman: I know! Excuse me? What does this yellow robot do?

Man 2: Oh that one. It helps you in the kitchen.

Man 1: How?

Man 2: Well, it does the dishes.

Woman: Hmm... we already have a dishwasher. We don't need a robot to do the dishes. Does it do anything else?

Man 2: No, but this orange one over here cooks dinner.

Woman: It cooks dinner? Wow! How does it work?

Man 2: Here let me show you.

Man 1: It's very noisy.

Woman: You're right. I don't want to listen to that all day. What about this blue one?

Man 2: OK you're really going to like this one. It goes to the store for you.

Woman: Like to the grocery store?

Man 2: The grocery store, the drug store, anywhere. It can do all of your shopping.

Man 1: Wow! Marcy, let's get it.

Woman: Bob, look at the price. It's expensive. We can't buy that.

Man: But you don't like to go to the store. If we buy this, then we don't have to. I can buy it for your birthday.
