

EVOLVE LEVEL 2, Audioscript for Unit 6 Quiz B

Radio presenter: We had a lot of questions about shopping and money last Friday, so today's program is going to be about getting a weekend job.

Many people work on weekends across the US. Often, they work extra hours because they want to save for something like a nice vacation, instead of borrowing money from their family. But sometimes it's simply because their daytime job doesn't pay a lot.

So, which jobs pay most? Well, if you don't mind working at night, I mean between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., then that is when all jobs pay a lot. None of them are difficult. The only thing that is difficult, if you ask me, is staying awake all night! I mean how do you do it? Anyway, we found one very interesting nighttime job that everyone can do: that is making bread in a big grocery store. They need fresh bread ready when the store opens in the morning, right? So there is a team of people who spend all night making the bread for the next day. Ah, can you imagine the wonderful smell! Now that's a job I could do!

Anyway... and listen to this... After you finish work in the morning, you can do all your shopping before the store opens! Now that's awesome. But it's not finished! When you get to the checkout, they give you a huge 30% discount off your groceries! So you can't lose: they pay you a lot and you get a big discount!

So, thanks for listening to my program... Now I'm going to sleep so that I can stay up all night for my weekend job. I make bread at my local grocery store! Good luck with your weekend jobs!
