MY BAD RESTAURANT EXPERIENCE STORY – May 25, 2017

I was having lunch with my best friend Madison yesterday, and she reminded me of something that happened a few years ago. So here it is: my bad restaurant experience story.

I was with Madison, and she suggested going to a Japanese restaurant. I had never been to a Japanese restaurant before, so I was quite excited. Madison ordered the food, and the waiter put two glasses of water on the table. Madison went to the restroom, and the food arrived. Next to the food was something small and green. I didn't know what it was, so I put it in my mouth. Suddenly, my whole mouth was on fire. I drank all of my water and then all of Madison's water. She came back and was surprised to see me drinking her water. She asked me what had happened, and I explained what I had done. She told me I had eaten something called wasabi, which is a very, very hot Japanese plant! I have never eaten wasabi again!

Have you had any terrible experiences like this?

Pedro Great story, Brittany! I have one, too. I was eating at a restaurant with my mom. The restaurant was quite expensive, with older people eating very quietly. I was telling a story and moving my hands around in the air when suddenly I knocked a glass of water off the table. It broke on the floor, and little pieces of glass went everywhere! Everyone looked at us with angry faces. I was so embarrassed! Then, the other customers started picking up the pieces of glass! The waiter wasn't mad at me. He brought us some more water and told me not to worry. I felt really bad. We never went back.
