

EVOLVE LEVEL 3, audioscript for Unit Quiz 3B

Sally: Rob, thanks for calling. So today we're talking about Cozumel, in Mexico. Why should people go to Cozumel? And what should they see and do there?

Rob: Hi, Sally. Well, first of all, plan to spend a lot of time outside. The weather is amazing. And so are the beaches. I've been to different parts of Mexico many times, and it's a country filled with beautiful places, but I'd always go back to Cozumel to relax.

Sally: Is it easy to get cheap flights?

Rob: Yes, it's surprisingly easy. People should look online and book flights on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays. It's cheaper on those days. Weekends are more expensive.

Sally: Good advice, Rob! Thanks! Do you stay in hostels or hotels?

Rob: I've stayed in both. There's a small hotel I like a lot near one of the beaches. I guess the hostels are a little cheaper.

Sally: OK. How about the food? Do you like Mexican food?

Rob: Oh, I love it! I really like the street food. It's cheap and delicious. Visitors shouldn't spend lots of money on fancy restaurants. It's more fun to try the local dishes at food trucks.

Sally: Street food – it sounds great. I'm hungry already! So, what else? Would you rent a car there?

Rob: Well, you can rent a car, but no, I wouldn't. You could rent a bicycle. That's fun. Cozumel is a small place, so it's very easy to get around.

Sally: That's great advice, Rob. Is there anything people should go and see in Cozumel? Are there any monuments?

Rob: Well, you should definitely go and see some of the ruins. They're amazing, and there are some fantastic tours. The guides explain everything you want to know.

Sally: Excellent! Thanks, Rob. Now, José, what advice do you have for us?
