

EVOLVE LEVEL 3, audioscript for Unit Quiz 7A

Jack: Hey, Emily. What are you doing?

Emily: Oh, hi, Jack. I'm looking for a course to take next summer.

Jack: Really? Why?

Emily: I want to study something that could help me in the future.

Jack: What are you thinking of taking?

Emily: I'm not sure. I'm looking at this website for ideas.

Jack: Look! There's a course called Rock School. You can learn how to play the guitar! You could be a famous rock star!

Emily: Are you serious? I used to play the piano, and I got bored with it. Also, the guitar isn't as easy as the piano.

Jack: That's true. I know because I used to play the guitar a lot when I was about fourteen.

Emily: You did? What happened?

Jack: My parents bought me a video game console, and I forgot about my guitar! I think it's in the garage somewhere. Look! There's a course on how to write a blog. You're really good at writing. You wrote some great stories for your college newspaper. How about that?

Emily: Mm. What would I write about?

Jack: You could write reviews of concerts. You've got really good taste in music.

Emily: True, but I don't go to concerts very often ... they're expensive. But you've given me an idea. I could write reviews of my favorite television series.

Jack: Yes. You could write a review after each episode. I'm sure lots of people would read it. How much is the course?

Emily: It's four hundred dollars for a three-week course, starting on August 1. If you pay for it online, they reduce the price to two hundred and ninety dollars.

Jack: Really? That's not expensive at all. You should sign up now.

Emily: OK, I will!
