To buy online or not to buy online...

Nowadays we have many options for how we shop. Do you shop online, or do you prefer to do your shopping in stores? As you can see from these accounts, there are different opinions about which option is best, and we can conclude that there are good reasons to value each one.

I have tried to shop online, but for me the online shopping experience is not nearly as good as actually going into a store. Going out to shop is a little more inconvenient because you have to leave your house. But for me, it is worth it to be in the store and know exactly what you are getting.

I enjoy going shopping and seeing all the new stores, chatting with the salespeople, and supporting local businesses. Shopping in stores is a bit more expensive, but sometimes vendors let you suggest a price for some items. You can't always do that online! For me, the experience of actually touching the goods is far better than looking at pictures of them. Wandering around the shops is time well spent.

~Sara

I love online shopping. It has changed my life. No more looking for a space to park, no more wandering around the store and worrying about crowds, and no more waiting in line!

Price plays an important role in how I shop. It's easy to look online for discounts and take advantage of them. You usually pay a fair price for what you want if you're patient. I think I save a lot of money this way.

Sometimes I see something I really like and I treat myself. Other times I may have to send the item back and trade for a new one. Online shopping works for my lifestyle. It gives me enough time to do the things I want!

~Dani
