HIKING EXPEDITION

Dear Hikers,

I look forward to welcoming you all next Saturday! We will be starting our hike at 8 a.m. at Little Falls. Please aim to be in the parking lot no later than 7.45 a.m. I realize that many of you are ¹*athletic / artistic* and experienced walkers, but please ensure you bring appropriate hiking boots and equipment with you.

Some of you have expressed concern about the length of the hike. I would like to put your minds at ²*stress / rest* on that – we will be taking regular breaks for food and water. However, you will need to be able to ³*cope / adapt* with some long uphill climbs. Also, please do not ⁴*observe / underestimate* the weather. It can get pretty cold and windy.

Saturday will be a great opportunity for you all to ⁵*show off / socialize* with each other as well as ⁶*interact / monitor* with nature. I look forward to meeting you all.

Best wishes,

Rick Nando

Satomi: Did you see that movie on Channel 5 last night?

Brad: Which one? The really 1 creepy / uneasy / suspicious one about the house in the woods?

Satomi: Yes, that one! I felt so 2 encouraged / tense / endangered while I was watching it. In fact, I seriously 3 estimated / insisted / hesitated to turn out the lights when I went to bed! I'm not usually 4 frightened / reserved / uneasy of the dark.

Brad: I watched some of it. The reviewers said it was a great movie, but I have 5 examinations / doubts / misinformation about that. I didn't think the acting was very good at all. Who was the lead actress anyway? Do you remember?

Satomi: You mean the Jennifer Aniston 6 look-alike / similarity / likeness?

Brad: Yeah, that actress. She was absolutely terrible, but the reviews I read said she was 7 logical / characteristic / gifted! I bet she couldn't believe her 8 fate / luck / coincidence when she got that part.

Satomi: I agree with you. Still, I guess it's a good thing we watched it on TV and not at the movies. At least we didn't have to pay for it!

HOW TO BE HAPPY

Happiness is always making headlines. But how do we find happiness? Happiness expert, Sandra Bagchi, gives us her top happiness tips.

First, know yourself! What sort of person are you? Does working on a team drive you crazy? Look for a different type of job. Do you wish you could contribute more to society? Start volunteering. Are you sociable and outgoing? Join some clubs. If you don't know and understand your personality type, you risk doing all the wrong things.

Second, think less about yourself and more about others. Research shows that being generous, kind, and compassionate towards other people, animals, and the environment can lead to greater personal happiness. Help an older person with a chore, give an animal a loving home, visit someone who is feeling lonely – even the simplest acts can be beneficial, so don't underestimate the difference you might make.

Third, get outside. It's a happy habit! There is almost nothing better that you can do in order to improve your mood and your health. Most of us need to get into the fresh air much more frequently than we do. Why not go for a walk in the park, play a game of baseball with your kids, take the dog for a long hike in the mountains, or spend time at the beach? You'll increase your Vitamin D levels, boost your mood, and have fun all at the same time.

And finally, enjoy the company of friends and family. It comes naturally to us to be with other people. We're social creatures, after all. Be sure to spend plenty of your free time with other people.

- 1 What is the main point of the article?
 - A to entertain
 - B to complain
 - C to give advice
- 2 According to the writer, if you understand yourself and your personality type,
 - A you'll change jobs less frequently.
 - B you'll make better choices.
 - C you will like your boss more.
- 3 According to the writer, why is it a good idea to help others?
 - A Helping others can increase your own happiness.
 - B Other people will think you're a good person.
 - C People won't underestimate you.
- 4 Which is one way to feel happier?
 - A working on a team
 - B taking more vitamins
 - C spending time in nature
